YALE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE SYMPOSIUM

This symposium will take place at Yale West Campus, 100 West Campus Drive, Building 800 / Conference Center, Orange, CT.

Epilepsy and seizures affect almost 3 million Americans of all ages. Tremendous advances have been made in epilepsy treatment over the past decade. Epilepsy may be treated with drug therapy, surgery, neurostimulation or a ketogenic diet. The wide range of antiepileptic drugs (AEDs) remains the cornerstone of treatment. Even with the plethora of epilepsy therapies now available, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that at least 45% of people with epilepsy continue to experience seizures. A serious gap exists between established recommendations and the actual care patients receive. This activity will bring participants up-to-date on the new advancements in the field and increase their awareness of the new therapies available for their patients.
