Men's Health Symposium: Men's Health Across the Lifespan

This symposium will be held at the Saybrook Point Inn in Old Saybrook CT.

Saturday, March 17, 2018

Morbidity and mortality rates in males in the United States and abroad are striking. Men do not seek health care at the same rate as women and children. We should be creating a culture that promotes good health for all people through healthy development across the lifespan. Shedding light on how government policies as well as public attention have grown to accept poorer male health outcomes is a task that needs to be dissected and attended to in public health, health education, health promotion, and community involvement.

This conference intends to review, discuss, and fulfill the need to better understand male gender specific issues relating to benign and malignant prostate disease, hypogonadism, male infertility, and sexual dysfunctions.
